Project

Field(s)	Image and film education; cultural mediation; social inclusion trough culture; migration
Description	At a time when Europe is receiving extraordinary numbers of refugees and migrants, one of the keys to ensure the social, cultural, political and economic integration of the new arrivals is intercultural dialogue. Images are « a language without borders » which allow to get over the language and stereotype barriers, to promote the exchange trough creativity and cultural processes and to raise public awareness on migrant issues. Nowadays, images are increasingly hybrids, plurals, digitals, so we intend to approach the migratory issue in this new context. We will initiate and support the production of multidisciplinary artistic collaborative projects related to the image, bringing together migrant people and host country populations. The aim is to elaborate a project methodology to increase capacity building of cultural mediation, social inclusion and image professionals.
