Project

Field(s)	Children & Young Adult Literature
Description	Diverse & inclusive books are critical to a child's emotional development. It is through stories that we can put ourselves in the place of any other person and learn about the plurality of perspectives that characterizes the world we live in. Children need both mirrors and windows on other worlds and realities. Illustrations are essential in this, because children need to recognize themselves not only in words, but especially in images without stereotypes. The aim of the project is to gradually invest in ways of getting more diversity in children's literature by engaging writers and illustrators from different backgrounds that will appeal more and other readers. By developing this project on a European level we want to expand the reach of existing initiatives and bring together useful expertise. In the end we want to engage all actors involved in the literary sector and bookproduction & -distribution by means of a European Charter and facilitate an enduring exchange of expertise.
